

MULTI-CHANNEL MARKETER LEVEL 3

Multi-channel marketers support customer-focused marketing activities, contributing to the implementation of marketing strategies and plans to drive product or service demand through various platforms and channels. They interact with both internal stakeholders, such as different departments and senior management, and external stakeholders like clients, digital agencies, and media professionals. Their responsibilities include content creation, market research, campaign analytics, marketing administration, and coordinating marketing activities, often working independently with minimal supervision and occasionally making decisions on smaller campaign aspects.
